

Work Started On Waterworks System

Looks Like Busy Year For Grayling.

NEED NOT BE ON WELFARE TO GET JOB.

Now that warm weather is approaching the various construction projects which are planned for Grayling and vicinity should be getting started soon. It is not known definitely at this time just how much work will be carried on here, but it seems certain that a considerable dent in the unemployment problem can be made.

The National Reemployment service, conducted by the U. S. Department of Labor, is registering and re-registering unemployed men and women continuously and is offering all possible cooperation to those who hire, to the end that jobs may be found for as many as possible.

On all P. W. A. projects, such as the waterworks, Cedar Street pavement, and Au Sable bridge, it is required that the contractor secure his help thru this agency and all persons desiring the opportunity to work on these projects should register at once.

Registration may be made on Tuesday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock by interviewing Mr. Lloyd Worden, who will be at the second floor of the Court house at that time.

Those who are already registered should be sure to keep their applications active by re-registering either by mail to the National Reemployment Service, 242 E. Front St., Traverse City. The original registration places one on the active list for only thirty days, and should be renewed at the expiration of this period.

Contrary to the prevalent opinion, the various P. W. A. projects do not give any priority to those on the relief rolls. It is only necessary that one be unemployed and registered in order to be eligible for the job.

During the past week Augustus Funkh, well contractor, completed the first test well for the new waterworks system and sunk the 8 inch casing for the second well a distance of twenty-two feet below the ground. Tests made on the test well indicate that a plentiful supply of water will be available, since the sand encountered is very apparently of the water bearing variety. The test well was driven fifty three feet below the ground and samples of sand were taken at five feet intervals and analyzed to determine the size of screens necessary for the permanent installation.

A sample of water from this well was sent to the State Department of Health for bacteriological examination and word was received from them on Tuesday that the well showed no signs whatever of contamination and was in all respects fit for drinking.

The eight inch casing in the second well will be driven thirty feet below ground this week and samples of sand obtained for an additional twenty feet, after which the casing will be driven in the first well and the screen installed. This work is subject to frequent delays while ordering screens and will probably not be completed until late in April.

Word has been received from the general contractor, L. G. Scherf of Detroit, that he will start work as soon as his contract has been approved by the Detroit office of the P. W. A. In all probability construction of foundations for the elevated tank will be under way by the latter part of next week.

When the system is finally completed Grayling will be assured of an excellent and continuous supply of water. It is planned to bring the distribution system up-to-date by means of an elevated storage tank of 100,000 gallons capacity and a complete circuit of mains with sufficient valves and appurtenances so that in case repairs are necessary to any part of the mains they can be made without stopping the supply of a large portion of the town. In the past this has caused inconvenience to nearly all users of water and we are glad that the new installation will allow us twenty-four hours use a day for 365 days in the year.

Lumberjacks-Cubs Play For City Champ.

WILL CLASH AT SCHOOL GYM FRIDAY NIGHT.

Tomorrow night in the High School gym basket ball in Grayling will have a good healthy last gasp of farewell. The occasion will be the big clash between the Grayling Cubs and the Grayling Lumberjacks.

These two teams, each with a following of many fans, have a chance to settle for this year the City Championship and also to offer further evidence as to which is the better ball club. They are playing a benefit game for the High School, the use of whose gym has given them home games in the season just past.

It ought to be a fracas worth seeing. The rival clubs haven't met in Grayling this year though they did tangle in the Roscommon independent tournament. The Cubs won a thriller. A lot of local fans followed the teams to see that game. This time they won't have to go out of town.

A preliminary is being arranged by Coach Willard Cornell of the high school which is designed to give a bit of a preview to the green and white of next season. The first game is slated to start at 7:30 and the reduced admission is 10 and 20 cents. Be sure and be on hand to see this really worth while attraction and give the high school athletics association a boost.

NOTES AND COMMENTS FROM WASHINGTON

by Congressman Roy U. Woodruff Tenth Michigan District.

In last week's letter I endeavored to point out the weaknesses of the Townsend "old age" pension plan. That my position on this question that the original set-up would not be workable, is, to at least some extent, concurred in by the delegation now in Washington to further the Townsend idea, is indicated by the fact that they have asked several Congressmen who have had long experience in pension matters to re-raft their plan to make its operation possible without endangering our economic structure.

Frankly, very few of us are satisfied with the administration plan which would limit Federal participation in old age pension payments to $16 per month to persons past the age of 65 years. Personally I hope to see Congress enact a law which will cause the Federal Government to match the state contribution may be. The Michigan old age pension law provides a maximum of $30 per month per person. I believe such a law could be financed without overwhelming tax burdens being thrust upon the shoulders of our poor people.

Many sins have been committed in the name of reform. Many deceptions are being practiced under NRA blue eagle in the name of recovery. For instance, the importers of the country, those people whose business it is to import foreign-made and foreign-grown products into this country in competition with American producers, operate under one of the many NRA codes. Having the right to use the blue eagle, they very promptly affix this insignia upon the foreign products when they reach American shores, and the American consumer is led to believe that when he buys these products he is buying products made by American labor or grown by the American farmer.

It seems also that contractors having contracts to manufacture various articles within the prisons of the United States also operate under a code. The blue eagle is placed upon the products, and they are sold in the open market in competition with the same class of products manufactured by free labor.

Somehow, I have always believed that the markets of this country, which are most valuable and the most desired of any market in the world, belong primarily to the law-abiding, industrious, thrifty citizens of this country. If I could have my way about it, those American markets would be preserved to these citizens, so long as they could properly supply them.

Grayling Festival

(By Mrs. W. G. Gamble, Kingstree, S. C.)
A South Carolina Woman Visits the Snow Queen

The following story is taken from the Record, published at Kingstree, South Carolina, February 21st:

It is a far cry and many a weary mile from Kingstree, S. C., a typical southern town, festooned and garlanded with spreading oaks and graceful Spanish moss, nestling on the banks of sleepy Black river, to Bay City, Michigan, where Jack Frost locks the rivers and lakes with huge thick ice, for five months out of the year. But I, who was born, reared and caressed by the southern sun and have almost reached my sixth decade before realizing how beautiful and fairy like the north land could be when clothed with ice and snow.

The hundred or more miles north of Bay City among the glacial moraines and hills of Michigan lies Grayling, the St. Moritz of the Central states, where annually is celebrated a three-day Snow carnival, a winter sport, we journeyed.

We left early one morning, loaded with such accessories as sleds, skis, alpine sticks, ice skates, well bundled and wrapped for our trip to the home of the Snow Queen. Picture, if you can, rolling hills covered with a blanket of the most beautiful snow with patches of green here and there, composed of spruce, hemlock and fir. The air crystal clear and the cold so sharp it cuts one's face like a knife. Statistics are tiresome but the temperature was 30 degrees below zero and yet we southerners shiver when thin ice covers our ponds and lakes at home. More interesting than that, these snow hills and ice covered lakes were dotted with humanity dressed in all colors of the rainbow, green and red predominating. Thousands of individuals of both sexes from the cradle almost to the grave enjoying themselves in the lusty sports of the north land. Moving pictures show us these things but cannot convey to us the glamor and excitement of the keenness of the air, the smell of the spruce, the laughter and shouts of the young girls with glistening white teeth, that glow with the joy of living, the husky, robust men with many of the other things that go with the winter carnival.

Some of the high lights of which my friends and neighbors would be interested in are first; the toboggan slides, these slippery courses a mile long, dotted with laughing human freight, with speed of eighty miles an hour or more; bob-sled courses with the many upsets, the children on the smaller hills with their miniature sleds, the ski jumpers soaring like some peculiar bird through hundreds of feet of air, the hockey games, the skating rink, with numerous couples dancing and gliding to music, the professional skaters attractively attired in silk and furs, the acrobatic skaters, and last but not least, the crowning of the Snow Queen, the wife of King Winter, and then a throne composed of four thousand two hundred blocks of ice weighing four hundred tons, with the northern lights playing over the scene, resembling the throne seen in Hans Anderson's Fairy Tales of our childhood days. She is a typical beautiful midwestern girl, attired in flowing robes designed by Mrs. Igloo, a Russian designer, a Siberian husky as a mascot, surrounded by her subjects to enjoy the fairland of the north. Her command was obeyed as was rightfully due an absolute monarch.

Holding in her hand the Star of the North, I, with my southern training and in spite of the keen wind and of the fact that I was among strangers, enjoyed, marvelled and wondered. I was welcomed in person by the numerous individuals, including the father and mother of the Snow Queen. Hospitality after all is not the peculiar property of the south. Florida might well look to her laurels at Grayling, the home of the winter sports.

Legion Jottings

The Bugle and Drum Corps met Monday evening at the High school gym for drilling and had a real work out. The boys are now realizing that it means work to get a corps in shape to play on the streets of any city so that the people will be satisfied. The playing of bugles and drums is only a minor detail compared to the marching and maneuvers for street work. We wonder if Spike got a sale of cigarettes and cigars. What say Spike? Oh! Well they all lived through it.

Our plans on having a minstrel show are going through as soon as possible. Any ex-service man or their wife or anyone who has a little talent are urged to get in touch with Alvin LaChapelle or John Deckrow and tell them what part you want to take in one of the best minstrel shows ever shown here. We want to get started on this as soon as possible so as to have it over before "Home Coming time."

The home coming committees are very busy these days and if the people who send in addresses of old residents who have moved away will please be sure to give their street addresses so mail will reach them.

Every week someone comes into the American Legion and you "Buddies" who have not joined better be getting a move on you. Why hold back; we have one of the most active posts in the state and have even formed a Bugle and Drum Corps and that is saying a lot for a city of this size. But Grayling Legionnaires do things when they start and usually put across whatever they set out to do.

William Huddleston has joined our Bugle and Drum Corps and will do a little tooting on the side from making flies for the fisherman so if he is making a big noise at the Fly Factory don't think anything of it.

The Auxiliary enjoyed their regular social meeting Tuesday night at the hall with Mrs. Harry Sorenson and Mrs. Charles Tinker as the hostesses. Some lively pinocle games were played.

Week At Lansing

(By FRANK D. BROWN,
Special Correspondent)

The troubled waters of the legislative sea have been stilled. The governor has out "smarted" the opponents of his reorganization program and every indication now points to a speedy enactment of the major bills before the two houses.

If anyone ever had any doubt as to Gov. Fitzgerald's political sagacity that doubt should be dispelled at once. Employing a very effective piece of strategy, the executive sent to the House this week a special message which apparently dissolved over night a lot of the partisan bickering that has existed to the detriment of expeditious handling of legislation at hand. The three republican members who bolted a few days ago and assisted the democrats in blocking a reorganization of important House committees also have been subdued. With a little pampering—a few pats on the back—they seem to have melted in their designs to wreck the administration's agenda and now give every outward appearance of being willing to "play ball."

In his special message to the House members, the governor placed the issue squarely in their laps—making the success or failure of the both legislative entirely dependent upon them. "Mingling in the dance are two alternatives: orderly progress or uncontinued confusion," the governor said.

Appearing for the release from committee of bills involving the salient parts of his program, the governor continued: "The question now is, shall we abandon the principles underlying this proposed legislation, because of petty differences that are entirely foreign to the issue or shall we stand by them, judging them only in the light of what they mean to the people?"

"Stand by them, we must. If you do not, you condemn this session of the legislature to unforgettable failure. Failure to enact constructive legislation at such a time as this is plainly and clearly a breach of faith with our citizens who placed their trust in you. Failure now would mean that the long hours already devoted to this session would be wasted. A disappointed and discouraged people would have good reason to demand immediate adjournment to prevent further waste of your time and their money."

As a result of this message things are beginning to move. Administration proposals are finding their way out of committees. The bill to consolidate all state welfare and relief agencies under one head has been given democratic approval in the House and will probably be passed with only few minor amendments. The measure was passed last week by the Senate but strong opposition was predicted in the lower house.

Senator Leon Case (D), Waterliet, who opposed the bill on the floor of the senate when it was before that body, has given your correspondent assurance that the federal government will set up its own welfare organization independent of the state in event the House passes the measure and it is signed by the governor.

This probability is anticipated by Gov. Fitzgerald who indicated to the writer that he would welcome such a thing. "Let the federal authorities proceed along that line," he said. "We have ample funds to administer to the needs of our people and can carry on the relief work with a saving of a good many dollars from that now being wasted by the federal government. It must be remembered that the federal government is giving us nothing. Under the present arrangement Mr. Hopkins at Washington is simply saying how much of our own money we can spend. It's the money of Michigan tax payers that is being spent and Michigan taxpayers certainly should have full say as to how it is used."

Despite this apparent amelio-

tion of differences over patronage and partisan matters, at least one of the administration's proposals is bound to fall by the wayside. That is, the recommendation that the state highway department be overhauled to establish a staggered non-partisan commission and make the job of highway commissioner an appointive one. The democrats will fight this to the "last ditch" and without their support there is no likelihood of its passing should it get out of committee.

The Thatcher school-aid bill which would appropriate $25,000,000 a year for the public schools has occupied much of the time of the House the past several days. A public hearing was held on the measure Tuesday night with school board members and educational leaders from the four corners of the state pressing their demand that they be given the full amount of money provided for in the bill.

The governor on any number of occasions during the last two weeks has expressed in no uncertain terms his opposition to such a sum of money, claiming that the amount in the first place is wholly unwarranted and in the second place, such an appropriation would disrupt the program of economy which he is endeavoring to "put across."

To the disinterested observer it appears that the school people are trying to get every cent possible out of the state treasury, regardless of whether or not the schools really need it, and Dr. Paul S. Voelker superintendent of public instruction, (who is a candidate for re-election this spring) stands ready to capitalize on the possibilities of the situation to the end that his personal fortunes may be furthered.

There is no serious doubt about the schools needing as much money as they ask for. No one seems to have come forward with a genuine or worthwhile argument justifying such a sum. The governor has pledged sufficient state aid to make up the $65,000,000 school budget which the educational group claims is needed. In view of this pledge, the school people have capitulated and submitted in so many words that they have been trying to get all that is possible but are willing to accept whatever they can get. It is estimated that about $20,000,000 of state aid will be required to supplement the primary school fund and local taxes to until the $65,000,000 which the school lobby is seeking.

Without an opposing vote the House passed the bill creating a corporation and securities commission as recommended by the governor. This measure which now goes to the governor will continue the work of the present securities commission with that of the corporation division of the secretary of state's office.

The Teachout small loan bill reducing interest rates from three and one-half percent to one and three-quarters has also been given House approval. The bill originally provided for a reduction to one percent. This measure, or rather others dealing with the same subject, have been "kicked" around the capitol for the past two or three sessions without getting through the gubernatorial bar. Two years ago a similar bill was successful only to meet the fate of Gov. Comstock's veto. This session, it may be different, although the small loan crowd in the state represents a formidable front and wields considerable influence which is not to be discounted.

Accord has been reached between the administration and the democratic bloc on the bill to amalgamate all tax-collecting agencies. One proviso exists, however, and that is that the automobile license division be left in the hands of the secretary of state. The democrats have insisted on this and Gov. Fitzgerald has agreed. With the amendments to be attached, the bill provides that the new tax department would have delegated to it the collection of the sales tax, such property tax as may be left, the gasoline tax and all other revenues except the automobile weight tax. Passage of this measure would automatically wipe out of existence the state tax commission and the sales tax division as now constituted.

Aside from this bill and that dealing with the welfare consolidation, there remain several others of prime importance and in which the administration has deep interest as to their ultimate passage. Included among these is the bill to abolish the state administrative board, the bill to return to the legislature the sole power to appropriate money, the bill to consolidate the state's financial system, and the one providing for the reconstruction of methods of handling prison and parole problems.

How about that new basement this spring? Also brick and stone fireplaces. Estimates carefully given. See Carlton Wythe, Grayling.

Camp Higgins

Aloze Skipeki suffered a simple fracture of the right forearm one evening last week. He was taken to Mercy Hospital at Grayling where Lieut. Igloe reduced the fracture and is now at Port Wayne hospital, Detroit, for observation and further treatment.

With dogs overruling the camp it has become necessary to rid the area of them. Mr. Merritt conducted an assembly at which a ballot was taken on which of the many dogs would be permitted to remain as the mascot. Speeches were given in defense of several favorites and on the ballot Watson, a small Mexican hound, won. Local enrollees have promised to remove other dogs permanently from the camp before the deadline date.

Ivan Schumann succeeds Arthur Pankow, Grayling enrollee, as chauffeur for the district commander. The latter received his discharge last week, as did William Huddleston, another Grayling man.

A gift of about 80 books enlarges the camp library. Circulation figures on books this month will be close to 400, the best in the camp's history.

Capt. McCullough, district commander, has been busy with plans during the past week for Camp Bear Lake (as it may be called) located in the vicinity of Kalaska, which will make the eighth camp in the Fourth forestry district.

Andrew Braidwood, who has been at Camp Higgins Lake since February 24, 1935, as cultural foreman, has been transferred to Camp AuSable as camp superintendent. Previous to his EOW work Mr. Braidwood was employed by the city of Pontiac as forester. Mr. Borgerson, formerly superintendent at AuSable has been transferred to Camp Mackinac in the upper peninsula in a similar capacity.

A recent shipment of steel cotb gives this organization enough of the new type sleeping equipment so that no longer is it necessary for anyone to have an old style canvas cot.

Walter McDonald, recently enrolled from Traverse City and the camp's amateur radio operator, is learning the work of clerk to Lieut. Igloe, the district surgeon. He succeeds Ivan Schumann.

Practical and written examinations were conducted in camp last week for drivers of the state trucks. Regulations require they demonstrate their efficiency at regular intervals.

"The Personal Touch" is Capt. E. W. Todd's next sermon title. Services are held in each camp by the chaplain every other week, according to his present schedule.

The Log Office Says:EXPOSITION BRINGS 6000 INQUIRIES

Perhaps one of the most fertile indirect advertising fields entered by the Log Office in the last year was the Little World's Fair held recently in Detroit.

EMTA was represented throughout the entire nine-day stand of the show at the State of Michigan Tourist and Resort Display, a beautiful fifty foot booth designed for the express purpose of showing Michigan to show-minded persons in Detroit, Chicago and Louisville, Ky.

More than 400,000 persons attended the exposition, most of them at one time or another paying a visit to the Resort booth.

200,000 individual pieces of literature were distributed the opening day of the show. During the nine days East Michigan carefully distributed 67,000 folders, posters, small pamphlets and the regular 54-page Guide calling attention to this region as an ideal vacation land for Detroiters and other Michigan and outstate residents.

It was to be regretted, however, that in the tons of literature that awaited the various sectional representatives on arriving at Convention Hall, only one small parcel originated in East Michigan outside of that provided by the Association despite the fact that for the last two months the Log Office has repeatedly called attention to the fact that it would distribute any and all resort literature sent to the exhibit. Upper Peninsula interests fairly flooded the booth with folders and West Michigan came in for a like share. Traverse City sent down several hundred cans of cherries along with mounted pictorial layouts of the appeals of that region.

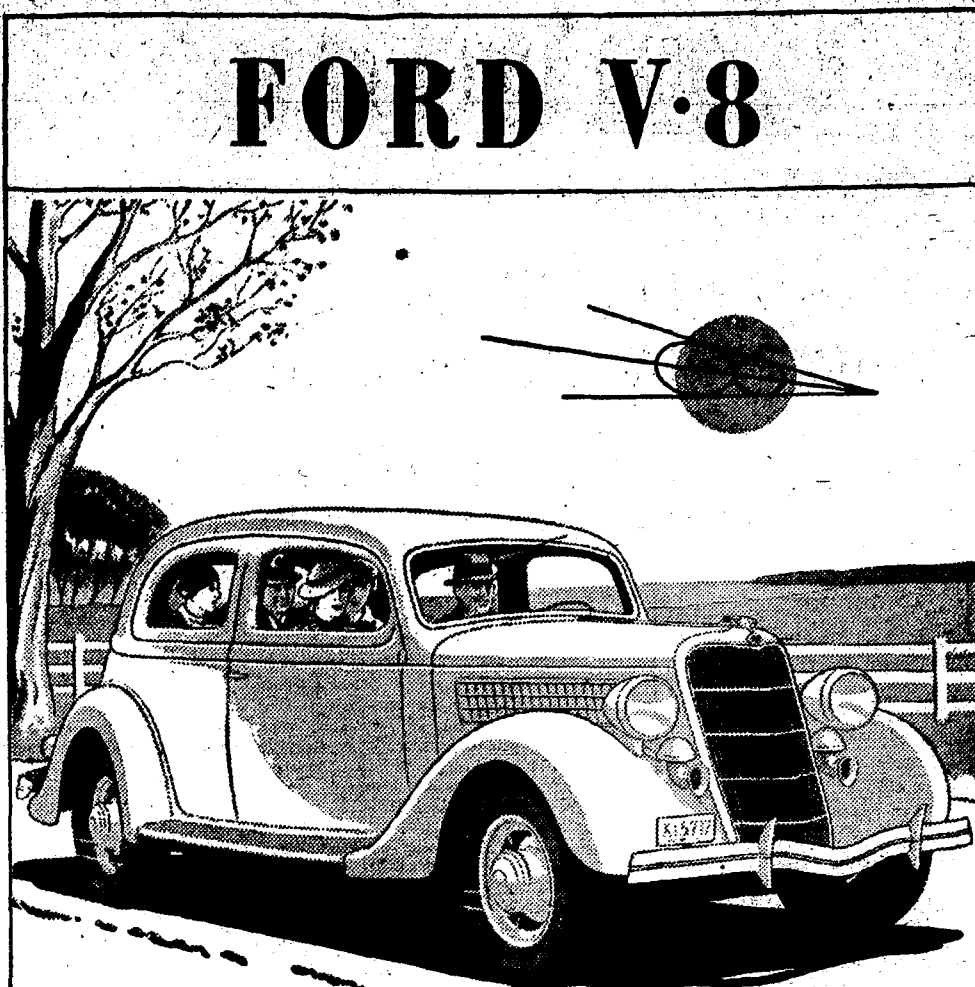

Beulah sent its smelt, Escanaba and Ludington their lake trout, but each morning's mail failed to bring any of the Lake Huron fish requested by the Log Office several days before the opening of the show. It is hoped another exhibit—The Chicago Exposition May 5-12 will find East Michigan much better represented. The fish are one of the most convincing publicity stunts the exhibit offers. They are displayed in a glass top refrigerator during the day and each evening given to prominent visitors. The resulting publicity more than justifies the gift. Then, the following morning a new batch of fish are placed in the "ice box" and disposed of in the same manner in the evening.

A mounted German Brown trout donated by the Hanson Hardware at Grayling proved a popular attraction as did the Red Fox sent down by Bud Chapelle of Harrisville. The Harrisville newspaper also sent one of Kiki Cuyler's stuffed bobcats and it was dubbed the "most petted female in the hall" a few hours after the turnstiles had begun clicking.

As a result of the Exposition, the East Michigan representative brought home between 6 and 7 thousand inquiries for tourist literature—not superficial inquiries, good ones. A show-going crowd is a fast moving audience and when one will take the time to sit down and write his name and address on a blank it would seem that he is more than curiously interested in a summer's vacation.

Throughout the show motion pictures were shown. The reels included "East Michigan," "Down the AuSable," "East Michigan Wildlife" and several other films taken in this section of the state last summer and used by the East Michigan Tourist Association.

During the mornings thousands of Detroit and nearby school children visited the booth. Communities and resorts desiring to place their literature on display at the Chicago show may send it prepaid to the Log Office before May 1.

In A Class By Itself

THERE is no way to compare the Ford V-8 with any other car because there is no other car like it.

The Ford enables you to step up into the fine-car class in performance, beauty, comfort and safety. But there is no stepping up in price. That is kept down by Ford low-profit policies and unique manufacturing methods. These are as different as the car itself.

It takes eight cylinders to give the modern performance you need these days. The Ford is powered by a V-8—the finest type of eight-cylinder engine. You have to pay more than $2000 for that in any other car.

A MIRACLE

By ANNE CAMPBELL

SAW a miracle from my own door.
Spreading its glamour on my patch of sky,
Giving me hope and bringing me once more
A dream that I supposed had passed me by.

After the rain, the darkness, and the fear,
After the lightning's flash, and the tempest's moan,
That rainbow seemed to shine for me alone!

It was as if God's finger wrote for me,
Who am so seldom far from my home place:
"Beauty will find you, and felicity,
And after suffering, the rainbow's grace."

Question Box By ED WYNN The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I bought a home in the country from a real estate agent who told me it was a two-story house with modern improvements. When I went to see it I discovered it didn't have any improvements and there was no second floor at all. What did the agent mean when he said it was a two-story house?

Truly yours,
IMA SAP.

Answer: The agent was right in telling you it was a two-story house. As you say all the rooms were on the ground floor, that is one story, and there aren't any improvements in the house, that's the other story.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I read in the papers today about a man who was crazy about golf. While he was playing a game with his wife she talked all the time, which interfered with his game. It seems his ball landed in a bunker and he had a very difficult shot. His wife kept talking to him. He could not stand it any longer. As she was in the bunker with him he turned and hit her with the driving iron. He was arrested and sent to jail for six months. Do you think that is right?

Yours truly,
IMA PUTTER.

Answer: It seems to me the reason he got six months was not because he hit his wife, but, he hit his wife in a "bunker" with a "driving iron." There's the whole story in a nutshell. He used the wrong club.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a man of forty years of age. I met a woman my own age at a party last week. I took her home and on the way I told her that her teeth were like "stars." I have called her up on the telephone, but she won't talk to me. What do you think is wrong?

Truly yours,
HEYM SINGLE.

Answer: You probably hit the nail on the head. You said her teeth were just like "stars" and she thinks you said that because they came out every night.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Can you give me an example that will fully describe what is meant by the saying: "There are two sides to every question?"

Yours truly,
E. MULSION.

Answer: Sure I can. Say two girls are discussing matrimony, two sides to that subject would be as follows: One girl could say: "I do not intend getting married till I am thirty years old," and the other girl could say: "I do not intend being thirty years old till I get married."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am opening a clothing store and have been advised to take out some fire insurance. What I want to know is this: Say I had $5,000 worth of stock and say I took out $15,000 worth of insurance on Monday and had a fire on Tuesday, what would I get?

Yours truly,
POLLA C. HOLDER.

Answer: You'd get ten years in jail.

Chancellor Hitler's Defiance of Treaty Provisions
Alarms Europe; Drouth Threat Causes Wallace to Lift Restrictions on Spring Wheat Planting.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

GERMANY, having recently boldly announced that she was now possessed of a military air force in violation of the Treaty of Versailles, still more boldly declares she is no longer bound by the obligations of that pact and proposes to build up an army of about 480,000 men, comprising 12 corps of three divisions each. This was the decision of the cabinet, which decreed compulsory military training throughout the reich.

The exact number of men in the army will be determined by a law to be enacted later.

This was Chancellor Hitler's reply to the action of France's chamber of deputies in accepting Premier Mandin's plan to increase the term of conscript service in the French army to 18 months and subsequently to two years. Germany considered that France was "dealing the last blow to disarmament," and Hitler, rushing to Berlin from Berchtesgaden, directed the action of the cabinet and issued to the German nation a rousing appeal for full support. He declared that the failure of other nations to reduce armament as called for in the Versailles treaty had released Germany from all treaty obligations, and that while the reich had only peaceful intentions, it must re-arm to protect its territorial integrity and maintain the respect of the world as a co-guarantor of European peace.

France is in no mood to take Hitler's defiance "lying down." An appeal was sent to the League of Nations to convoke an extraordinary council to deal with Germany's violation of the Versailles pact. The note hinted at the possibilities of economic sanctions (penalties) against Germany which might result in a boycott. An attempt is being made to force Britain into an alliance with France, and the mission of Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, to bring Germany back into the comity of European nations is regarded as seriously compromised. France and Italy insist that Simon go to Berlin as spokesman of the three powers, and not as the representative of Britain alone. Premier Mussolini is said to be backing France, and is alleged to be the prime mover in a scheme to revive the pre-war policy of encircling Germany with a ring of steel.

President Roosevelt expressed his hope that his "good neighbor" policy might be extended to Europe as a basis for peaceful settlement of the tense situation. Just how the President expects to prevail upon those traditional enemies to become "good neighbors" was not fully explained. He declined to say whether this government will send a note to Germany protesting abrogation of military provisions of the separate treaty with this country. Although the United States is not a signatory to the Versailles pact, the separate peace treaty negotiated with Germany includes the military phases of the Versailles treaty. Many people in this country feel that United States intervention in the European dispute is neither necessary nor advisable.

GOV. MARTIN L. DAVEY of Ohio, charged by Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins with "corruption" in Ohio relief, went before the state senate and demanded a thorough investigation. He defied Hopkins to come to Ohio for trial on a warrant he had secured charging Hopkins with criminal libel. Hopkins had alleged in a letter that he has proof of "corruption" of relief administration in Ohio including soliciting of funds for campaign purposes from firms that sold relief materials. Hopkins, through C. C. Stillman, FERA regional officer, has taken over administration of Ohio relief. Department of Justice attorneys in Washington declare they stand ready to defend Hopkins, but that there was no indication that Hopkins would go to Ohio, although he may change his mind. The spectacular blowup is said to have had its inception in the 1934 political campaign. Davey made campaign speeches charging that Ohio relief was mismanaged, and particularly aimed his barbs at Cleveland. This irked Cleveland leaders since relief there had been administered through a non-political group, which later became the official Cuyahoga county relief administration. Hopkins often took note of the fact that Cleveland's relief committee was "one of the best in the country." Later Davey pledged himself not to touch the Cleveland organization, but is said to have ousted several members, and repeated old charges. Cleveland leaders took the fight to Washington.

Ohio Democrats stand firmly behind Davey. The Democratic delegation to the Ohio legislature appealed to President Roosevelt "to right the wrong which had been done our governor" and Francis W. Poulson, Democratic state chairman, summoned to appear before the grand jury, delivered a scathing attack on Hopkins. Poulson charged that Republicans in high government offices "have betrayed the President," and named Hopkins as "one who could be expected to tear down the Democratic party."

CLARENCE DARROW, foe of the NRA, and author of the famous report which attacked NRA more than a year ago, assailed the administration's economic theories, including the national recovery act, in his testimony before the senate finance committee. The famous lawyer whose sharp speech and fiery courtroom tactics have made him famous, denounced NRA as playing into the hands of big business to the destruction of the "little fellow." He argued that NRA attacked the problem from the wrong angle and that the real trouble lay in faulty distribution, thus assailing the theory of scarcity. Darrow swept aside statements that NRA had helped organized labor, reduced unemployment and abolished child labor, with an assertion that it would have happened anyway. "The panic put an end to child labor," he said. "There wasn't any room for it while fathers and mothers were out of work."

"There is no question that small business has suffered under the NRA," Darrow continued. "It has suffered more than it would have suffered otherwise."

RESTRICTIONS on planting spring wheat have been removed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who fears the effect of another widespread drouth. The year's first crop report showing that farmers intend to plant 17,847,000 acres of spring wheat is said to be responsible for Wallace's about face. Last year the acreage was 18,521,000 acres. The administration is convinced that the government and farmers have a duty to protect consumers against a wheat shortage, he said. Farmers will plan an additional 900,000 to 2,300,000 acres as a result of the new order, and will harvest between ten and thirty million bushels more, Wallace estimates. Spring wheat normally constitutes about one-fourth of the nation's crop. He denied that the European situation pointing to a possibility of increased sales had anything to do with the new decision. Farmers under contract who plant their full spring wheat acreage will receive full benefit payments, but in return will be required to agree to reduce production in 1936 by the amount asked in next year's contract plus the amount they would have reduced this year. There is no indication that the corn acreage control program for 1935 will be altered.

BY A vote of 202 to 191, the house voted to substitute the Patman currency expansion bill for payment of the soldiers' bonus for the "sound money" plan of Representative Vinson. A bolterous house thus defied President Roosevelt's warning that he will veto immediate payment of the adjusted compensation certificates. The administration is counting on the senate sustaining the veto.

DONALD R. RICHBERG was named by the President to lead a reorganized NRA board, taking the place of S. Clay Williams, resigned. At the same time the President increased the group governing the Blue Eagle agency from five to seven. A White House statement emphasized the change was made to accelerate the drive to push extension of the NRA through congress.

THE federal tree planting project will get under way in North Dakota on April 15. The project has already been started in other states, but the major development of the program will be centered in North Dakota this year. The state has been assigned a quota of 600,000 trees for a belt 85 miles long. This is only a part of the operations which envisage a 100-mile wide belt of trees extending from near the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico. The work started March 1 in Texas and Oklahoma, and March 15 in Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota projects will be started at the same time as that in North Dakota.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is looking ahead to 1936. Authoritative word has reached the Capital that he wants all controversial administration legislation cleared away at this session, so that congress can meet for a short and harmonious session prior to the 1936 Presidential campaign. Besides the relief bill, Mr. Roosevelt is said to be specially anxious to have congress pass his social security program; utility holding company legislation; a bill continuing NRA for two years; transportation regulation coordination; banking legislation; ship subsidy and increase in the capital of the Home Owners Loan corporation. If this can be cleared from the calendar, it may prevent any serious party squabbles that might interfere with plans to bring about Roosevelt's re-election. The White House is seriously concerned over rumors that congress may scrap a good part of the administration's controversial legislation.

MUSSOLINI'S answer to the latest note on the Abyssinian situation postpones approval of the proposal that differences be decided by an international commission on conciliations "at least until the futility of direct negotiations has been proved." Il Duce made a counter proposal suggesting that the Italian minister to Abyssinia and the Ethiopian foreign minister get together for a series of personal conferences, go over all the data, and attempt to settle the dispute without the necessity of conciliation under the direction of the League of Nations. Direct negotiations are said to have the approval of both the French and British governments.

SPRING arrived in the West with a stifling dust storm which shrouded the country from eastern New Mexico to the Great Lakes. Powdered soil whipped up from the drouth-scoured prairies hid the sun, and beat relentlessly upon the senses. A dozen deaths were reported, due to suffocations, dust-induced pneumonia and traffic accidents. Freight trains were rolled to sidings, and passenger trains crept along on slow orders. Schools were closed in a number of communities in western states. Wheat prices jumped from 2 to 3 1/2 cents a bushel as winds cut into the dry Southwest, and Governor Landon of Kansas appealed to President Roosevelt for aid.

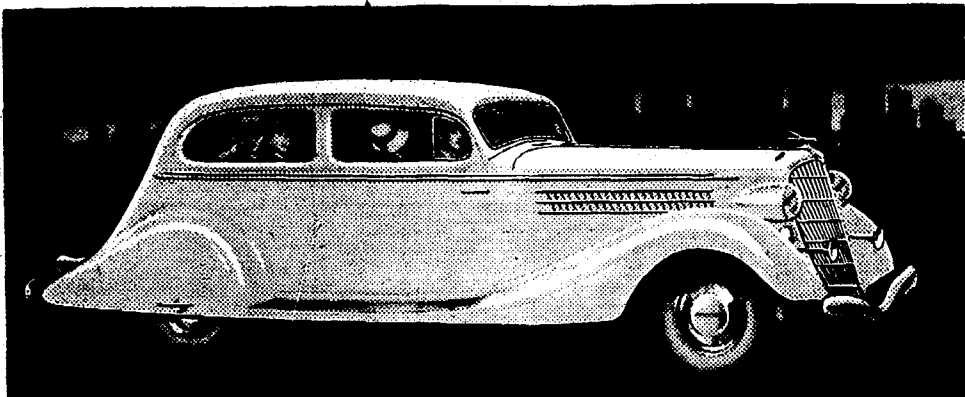

PLANS to reduce American money to a single class—possibly federal reserve notes—are being considered by the administration, thus simplifying the nation's monetary structure and making it easier to control. Before this could be established it is necessary to make widespread changes in existing laws, and this will undoubtedly be undertaken when more immediate stages of the recovery drive are completed. According to a high government official, one class of money must be established in order that the government may effectively control issuance of money. Under this plan treasury notes and United States notes would be retired. The silver certificates backed by bullion now held in the treasury might be withdrawn from circulation and transferred to the federal reserve banks as was done with the gold certificates.

COMPROMISE and White House pressure brought about the defeat of the McCarran "prevailing wage" amendment to the work relief bill in the senate, and administration leaders were confident that the measure would be laid before the President for signature within a few days. The deadlock over the amendment was broken when Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., of Georgia, proposed a substitute which leaves the President free to pay "security wages," officially estimated at $50 a month, provided they do not adversely affect the wage scale in private industry; and providing that the prevailing wage must be paid on all permanent federal building projects. This way out, which had been approved by the White House, was accepted by the senate by a vote of 83 to 2, after the McCarran amendment had been defeated, 50 to 38. The two votes against the compromise were cast by Metcalf of Rhode Island and Hale of Maine, both Republicans. Before the vote on the McCarran amendment was taken Senator Glass announced he was authorized to say that if it prevailed President Roosevelt would veto the measure.

Senate action finally developed into a race to pass the measure before Huey Long returned from Louisiana. Administration forces defeated three attempts to slash the bill, and overrode protests of old line Democrats that the bill imperiled the nation's credit. Senator Glass, chairman of the appropriations committee in charge of the bill, solemnly asserted: "I stand on my prediction that this tremendous appropriation will impair the credit of the United States." Senator Tydings of Maryland described the bill as the "grandest pork barrel ever to come before congress."

THOUSANDS SEE TOURIST AND RESORT DISPLAY

Thousands of Michigan residents are being given a convincing reason why they should select the home state for their summer's vacation as the Michigan Tourist and Resort Commission displays its attractive booth at the Little World's Fair in Detroit this week.

Located at a strategic point just inside the Cass Avenue entrance, the booth is a popular "first stopping place" for the hundreds of thousands that swarm Convention Hall for the Exposition.

More than two hundred thousand individual pieces of literature were distributed at the booth the first day of the show, a continual throng milling in and out of the display from morning opening to evening closing.

Its background made of knotty pine, the display was designed by Edward Dreier, publicity director of the Michigan Tourist and Resort Association and the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau. The booth is fifty feet long and ten feet deep. It houses four batteries of illuminated, colored pictures, depicting the tourist and resort lure of the state. It was not uncommon the first few days of the show to hear Michiganders, unschooled in their state's attractions, exclaim, "I never realized Michigan is so beautiful."

A Bobcat from the private collection of Kiki Cuyler, Chicago Cubs outfielder, who spends his winters in Harrisville, is being displayed along with a red fox mount, also from the Huron Shore community. Mounted fish, beaver pelts, deer heads and countless pictorials make up the bulk of the display.

Fresh fish, shipped daily from Great Lakes communities and displayed in a refrigerator, prove a popular attraction.

Motion pictures are shown continuously in a built-in theatre. So great have the movie crowds become, on several occasions it has been necessary to shut off the machines to allow visitors to pass down the gaily decorated avenues.

The East Michigan Tourist Association is represented by Ben G. Wright, publicity director of the organization.

A score of friends gathered Friday night at the home of Mrs. Jas. Reynolds to surprise that lady with a party on her birthday anniversary. Bridge was the order of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Sales and Mrs. Earl Hewitt. A delightful lunch, featuring a mommoth cake, was served the guests late in the evening.

Ten smelt fishermen, headed by Nels Corwin, were at the Boyne City smelt run Monday night and returned with a wash tub full of those silvery fish. And on Tuesday night about twenty men enjoyed a smelt dinner at the hunting cabin. Over 800 smelt fried in deep fat made a banquet fit for a king and when the party was over there wasn't a fish left.

Carl Hanson pulled a fast one on some of the smelt fishermen at Boyne City Monday night when he held a big basket into which the "dippers" dumped their catches thinking, probably, that he was one of their own party, and Carl came away with a bushel of smelt that were intended for someone else. But there were plenty of smelt for everyone and nobody was deprived, for the stream was literally alive with the silver board.

Mrs. Celia Granger was very agreeably surprised last Thursday night with a party given on her birthday by her daughters. 28 persons spent a very enjoyable evening together. Pinocle prizes for the men went to A. J. Trudeau and Fred Lamm. The Ladies' prizes were taken by Mrs. Mallinger and Ruth Corwin. The group presented Mrs. Granger with a beautiful end table in remembrance of the occasion.

The hostess served a lovely dinner after the games. Mrs. Kraus' sister Mrs. O'Brien of Wisconsin was an out-of-town guest.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lance, (Mrs. Myrtle Perry) were greatly surprised Monday night when a large group of friends and neighbors gathered at their home for an informal party in honor of their marriage. Mrs. Perry and Mr. Lance were married quietly in Bay City, some three months ago, the twenty-second of December to be exact, at the parsonage of the Madison Ave. M. E. Church, Rev. Williams officiating. Mr. and Mrs. George E. Oliver were the accompanying couple. The announcement, when it was finally made this week, came as a total surprise to everyone, and the Lances are still laughing.

A number of people have been riding Sheriff Bennett for permitting us to drive our car without 1935 license plates. In order to issue a car license we must first have a car title and this has been applied for. In fact title and 1935 license were applied for and fully paid for soon after we purchased the car but County Treasurer Ferguson cannot issue license manuals until a new title arrives from the State department. We were assured by the branch license manager and the officers understand that we have a perfect right to drive our car under the circumstances. We haven't the least desire to usurp a privilege that is not accorded to every other citizen, and would not do so knowingly. We are sorry our officers have had to be embarrassed on our account, but the public is not to blame because they had no way of knowing the facts.

Eighty-four officers representing the entire C.O.C. of lower Michigan enjoyed a banquet at Camp Higgins Lake this noon. This followed a conference led by Major Stark and Capt. McCullough.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Welsh and family motored to Grand Rapids Monday. From there, the boys Tom and Fred went by rail to St. Johns Military Academy, that they are attending at Delafield, Wis. The boys had been home for the annual spring vacation.

John Bruun, manager of our local bank, was the principal speaker at the Kiwanis club Wednesday noon. He analyzed their latest bank statement which showed conclusively that the bank is under good management and is a real asset to the business interests of Grayling and the county.

The L. N. L. held their regular social meeting at the home of Mrs. Edwin Chalker last Wednesday evening. The evening was spent playing Pedro and pinocle, the high scores going to Mrs. Neal Mathews and Mrs. Williams, the low scores to Mrs. George Colten and Virginia Feldhauser. A lovely lunch was served by the committee.

"Little Stories for Bedtime"

by Thornton W. Burgess

WHAT DANNY MEADOW MOUSE DID

TO GRANDFATHER FROG, watching from the safety of the Smiling Pool, it seemed that Danny Meadow Mouse hadn't the least chance in the world. There he was on the bank of the Smiling Pool with water in front of him and Reddy Fox creeping up right behind him. To try to run back would be to run right into Reddy's mouth. There wasn't a place for Danny to hide.

"I told Danny he was foolish to come over here," muttered Grandfather Frog.

So Danny Swam With All His Might for the Other Bank of the Smiling Pool.

ther Frog. "I'm rather fond of the little fellow, and I hate to think that I shall never see him again."

Grandfather Frog saw Reddy start to spring on Danny Meadow Mouse and closed his big, goggle eyes so that he would not see the dreadful end of Danny. He expected to hear Danny's last despairing squeak, but instead he heard a splash. Grandfather Frog's big goggle eyes flew open, and then he gave a grunt of surprise. On the bank where Danny had been a second before was Reddy Fox, and if ever there was an angry and disappointed Fox, that one was Reddy. And there in the Smiling Pool itself was Danny Meadow Mouse swimming straight out toward the middle as if he were quite as much at home in the water as his big cousin Jerry Muskrat himself.

From the way he was headed it was quite clear that Danny intended to swim across the Smiling Pool to the other bank. "Ohgarum!" exclaimed Grandfather Frog. "Ohgarum! Bravo, Danny Meadow Mouse! Bravo!"

Danny made no reply. He was too busy. He couldn't waste his breath talking. Besides, he was afraid he would swallow some water and choke. So he kept right on swimming as hard as ever he could. The truth is, Danny was in a hurry to reach the other bank. While he wasn't afraid of the water, he was afraid of certain folks who live in the water. He knew that Snapper, the great, big Snapping Turtle lives in the Smiling Pool, and that nothing would make him happier than a fat meadow mouse for his dinner. Then Danny couldn't help but think of Billy Mink. If Billy Mink should happen along, well, Danny didn't like to think of it. You see, Billy Mink is also fond of fat meadow mice.

So Danny swam with all his might for the other bank of the Smiling Pool. There were some little holes in that bank where he would feel quite safe. As for Reddy Fox, he looked both foolish and angry. You see, Reddy had felt absolutely sure of that Meadow Mouse dinner. As it was, he wouldn't even get a frog dinner, for, at the warning of Redding the Blackbird, all the young frogs along the edge of the Smiling Pool had dived for safety.

JUST THAT

"Do you know the fable of the grasshopper and the ant?"
"Oh, yes. The grasshopper danced while the ant toiled to get the money to take a few lessons."

WORSE AND WORSE

"There is one person worse than the man who talks about what he doesn't understand."
"Who's that?"
"The one who listens attentively and pretends to understand every word."

COLORFUL

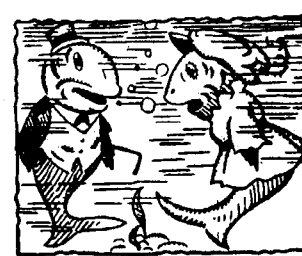

"Well, son, how did the game come out today?"
"We beat 'em—three black eyes and two busted noses."

CORRECT

"I'm going to get some money soon."
"Who's telling you?"
"A fortune teller."
"I'd rather have that sort of information from a paying teller."

HAS FISHITIS

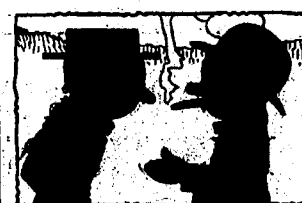

"You say your husband is very nervous?"
"Yes, he shakes like a jellyfish."

NO CURVES

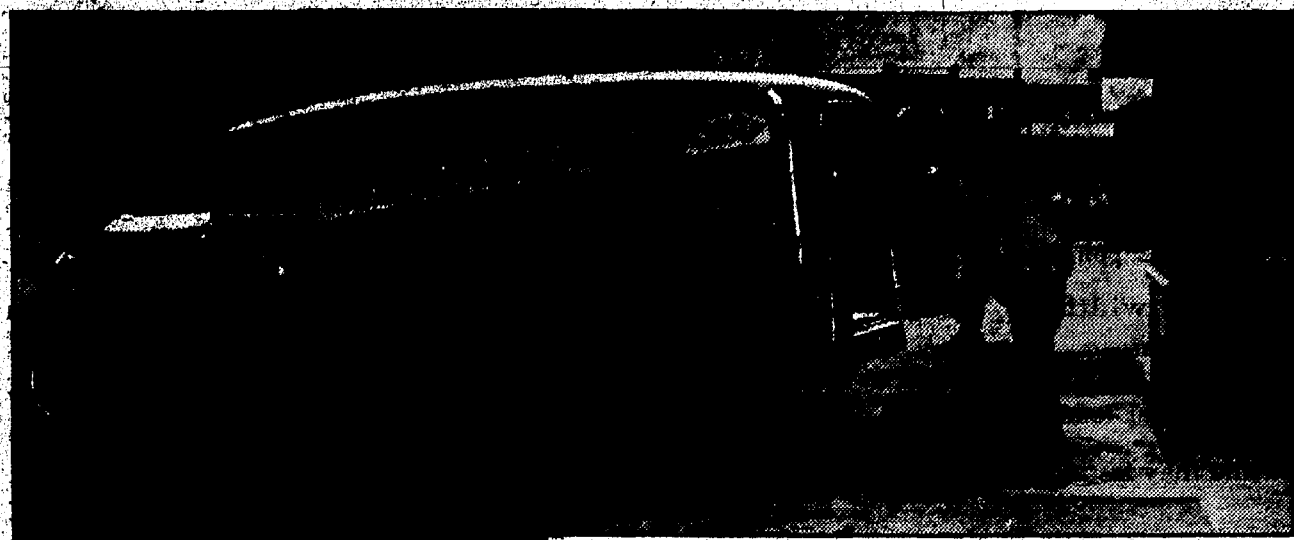

"Did Brown lose control of his car?"
"Completely; his wife uses it all the time."

BAD ENOUGH

"Anything serious at your house?"
"I saw the doctor call every day this week."
"Serious! I should say so, he called to collect a bill."

Science Wars On Mud Roads

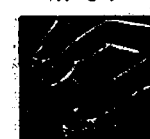

WHAT can be accomplished by applying the science of soil physics to road construction is graphically portrayed in the two views of Michigan roads above. Both pictures were photographed the same day under adverse weather conditions, following an all night rain and two days of thawing weather. The ordinary dirt road was almost impassable. The calcium chloride stabilized road presented a smooth level surface. Many roads of the latter type have been constructed in the past two years, using principles developed by the United States Bureau of Public Roads and other research engineers. By using proper proportions of sand, clay and gravel, with calcium chloride to provide the necessary moisture for cohesion, a dustless, hard-surfaced highway is produced. Because of the low cost of construction and maintenance, highway engineers predict this new type of surface will give great impetus to the improvement of farm-to-market roads.
